Ancient Postal Routes

This year's EUROPA release.

When Christian IV created the Danish postal service in 1624, the most important route went between Copenhagen and Hamburg. Mail riders were added on the route to carry letters, parcels and goods.

The two EUROPA stamps show coloured views of Copenhagen and Altona near Hamburg. Two stamps for letters to be sent abroad and one for domestic use.

The illustrations on the first-day covers show part of the Postal Ordinance of 1624 and a section of cartographer Jens Sørensen's map of Altona and Hamburg from around 1718.

100 years since Reunification

Two historical photographs witness the peaceful referendum at Folkehjem village hall in Aabenraa in 1918, when the audience hears H.P. Hansen's speak about the forthcoming vote on being reunified with Denmark, and the subsequent celebrations in 1920, when the Reunification became a reality and Christian X rode across the old border at Frederikshøj. The two stamps are for letters to be sent abroad.

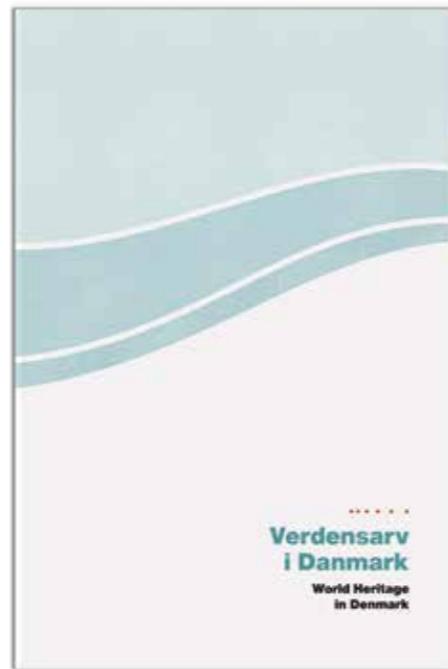

The illustrations on the first-day covers show a drawing of the 1918 ballot paper and a card commemorating the 1920 celebrations.

» Outstanding Universal Value

UNESCO World Heritage in Denmark

The prestige booklet provides an introduction to UNESCO's work and what it means to be included in the prestigious World Heritage List. The booklet describes each of the seven Danish sites that have been designated as having Outstanding Universal Value. Last but not least, you get three sheets of gummed stamps featuring the five World Heritage Sites, which came out earlier this year as self-adhesive stamps. One sheet as a progressive proof.

Send us your stamp suggestions

For PostNord, it is important not only that Danish stamps look beautiful on letters, but also that they reflect the breadth and diversity that exists in society. This is why we would like to encourage you to write to us and tell us what deserves to be on a stamp.

All you have to do is send an email to stamps@postnord.com with your suggestion, with a brief explanation. All suggestions are discussed in PostNord Stamp Council, which decides the themes for upcoming stamps.
